If you want to live amongst the treetops, with unimpeded views of forest, mountain and distant sea, then this house is for you. Perched at the top of the 4114m² plot, the style of this home was influenced by the work of Australian architect Glenn Murcutt and translated to the South African vernacular and its unique setting at the top of Zwaanswyk. The arching steel roof that is visible from the road gives no hint of the extraordinary expansive glass and steel structure it shelters. Comprising two levels of carefully chosen materials - glass, stone, rosewood, polished travertine, steel and corrugated iron - you have beautifully considered living areas opening up to the surrounding light, views and nature. Your every comfort and lifestyle requirement has been catered to from the three Morso stoves, Gaggenau kitchen appliances, a home cinema, gym with sauna and steam shower, artist's studio to 'his and hers' studies, currently configured for three, but easily re-formed to five bedrooms. You will be inspired to create your own space within these glass walls.
